

Arturo Sandoval

The Arturo Sandoval Concerto # 2 for Symphony and Orchestra will have its U.S. premier in 2017.

Arturo Sandoval is a world-renowned classical musician and has performed with the foremost orchestras the world over. For the debut release of John Williams' Trumpet Concerto, Arturo recorded the work with the London Symphony Orchestra. Arturo's classical artistry has earned him the respect and admiration of the most prestigious conductors, composers and symphony orchestras worldwide.

Arturo's performances with Symphony Orchestras, accompanied by his rhythm section, are some of his most diverse and sought-after presentations. These exhilarating shows feature Arturo performing a renowned classical concerto (Hummel, Hayden, Arutunian, and more) followed by Pops charts which include Arturo's greatest compositions arranged for full orchestra. Finally the show closes with Arturo and his rhythm section leading the audience to their feet with their exuberant Afro-Cuban pulse and vibrant melodic hues, a captivating and dazzling musical experience.

Sandoval is one of the most dynamic and vivacious live performers of our time. His TV performances have been seen by millions and include the Oscars where he played with Celine Dion, Grammy performances with Justin Timberlake and with his own band and his debut on the Billboard Awards Show accompanying Alicia Keys. In 2013, Arturo was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor, by President Obama.

Partial Performance List:

Boston Symphony & Boston Pops
National Symphony
Baltimore Symphony
Honolulu Symphony
Indianapolis Symphony
Memphis Symphony
Pittsburgh Symphony
Rochester Philharmonic
Utah Symphony

London Symphony
Los Angeles Philharmonic
Detroit Symphony
Houston Symphony
Madison Symphony
Oregon Symphony
Puerto Rico Symphony
Toledo Symphony
Winnipeg Symphony